PLAYBOY'S BOOK OF LINGERIE

PLAYBOY PRESS

It happens every spring. You lose your heart to someone or something—a pretty woman, a child, a team, a puppy, a song. Even a bit of lingerie can capture your heart for a moment. After all, it is a silly season, as the woman who wrote, “Spring can really hang you up the most,” can attest. No foolin’! Cindy Margolis, cover model and high priestess of the March-April issue of Playboy’s Book of Lingerie, leads us in an observance of the mysterious and often playful rites of spring. Follow if you dare.

You'll lose your heart to luscious Cindy Margolis, if you haven't already. Her image adorns the walls of countless apartments, because Cindy may be America's number-one pinup girl, with more than fifty posters on the market. Widely recognized as one of the country's top bathing-suit models on television and in print, she makes a graceful move to lingerie for our spring issue.

As nature begins its rebirth cycle, women naturally gravitate to rural settings. Rosie Tenison (far left) swings into action in a drop-dead outfit of satin and lace. Ava Fabian (left) and Pauline Townshend (above) do chores, letting their lingerie fall as it may.

March is a playful month. Celestial Pravato (this page) toys with our affection. Susie Hitchinson and Kimberly Southwick (right), in matching ensembles, make us wonder if we're coming or going.

There's a certain je ne sais quoi approach to lingerie this season. Tina Fraulini (below) is a wild child in her black-and-gold print. Deborah Driggs (bottom) gets a leg up on fashion in designer lace. Tina Bockrath (right) wears whisper-thin net and a pretty pout. Caught in saucy satin, Lorraine Olivia (overleaf) kicks up her heels.

Sunny days are returning, and doing homework becomes a major challenge. Petra Verkaik (left) makes things easier—or at least more interesting—in a black lace garter belt. Pam Stein (above left) wears a ruffle of white satin. Coquettish in her country-kitchen space, Michele Smith (above right) covers up in a crisp cotton poet's shirt.

Good tidings are likely to occur on the Ides of March if the gods are appeased and you don't anger Dame Fortune. D'Andrea Bryant (below) is always careful.

Tonya Poole (right) may be more inclined to take a few chances, secure in the knowledge that lingerie is the one thing in life she can absolutely depend on.

Simone Eden (above and left) may be suffering a touch of spring fever, a time of restlessness and vague yearnings. It cannot be her intimate wear that is causing it, because she displays some incredibly attractive pieces. Tracy Dali (overleaf) is a sophisticated lass with continental class.

Lingerie seems to blossom even as blooms burst forth from new buds on garden plants. Jacqueline Sheen (left) gets into a chic teddy. Callie Colby (above) lights up the environment with a blue one. Jeannine Vincent (below), in a bespangled teddy, seems overwhelmed by the message of love, accompanied by red roses, she received.

Rock-and-roll women began the movement of lingerie as outerwear. Anita Hart (top) is happy to go along. Victoria Bowman (above) vacillates, managing to be indoors and out at the same time. There's not a hint of hesitancy about Monique Noel (right), however. She's in favor of getting vitamin D straight from the source.

T. R. Kramer (above) is tempted to remove her pajamas in the unexpected warmth. Michelle Sacks (right) is an architectural dream in white cotton eyelet lingerie.

Michelle Anderson begins the morning in a unitard, but as the day heats up and her book starts to bore, personal adornment begins to diminish. By evening, she has created her own story—a moody dreamworld filled with fantasies of endless seas, picture-perfect islands and love on the romantic white sand under a full moon.

This chiffon nightgown is too pretty to sleep in. Perhaps that's why Billie Jo Velasco (above) dawdles before going to bed. Pam Stein (right) puts on her thinking cap—in a color complementary to her robe, you'll notice. From her attitude, we'd guess she's studying TV listings.

Dreamy lingerie for sleeping beauties. Morgan Fox (left), attired in a fabulous corset, rises in time for tea. Pearls are appropriate, no matter the time or place. Kristin Herold (below) is rarely seen without hers. Dani Long (bottom), in a delectable bra, perks up when she hears the temperature report from her bedside radio. Lori Williamson (overleaf) is pretty as a picture in haute lingerie, her print nightgown resembling fine art.

Reneé Tenison (left) has every reason to smile. In her high-rise condo overlooking the city, she dons lingerie for an urban adventure. Petra Verkaik (below) is going to stay in her boudoir and slinky teddy. Lorissa McComas (overleaf), wearing a transparent G string, cooks up some Saturday night fun.

Through the looking glass, Carmen Berg (above) takes a turn for wonderland, a beguiling heroine in satin panty and garter belt. Cathy St. George (below) is looking good, too, in matching bra and bikini. Wendy Christine (right) feels fancy-free in a tiny teddy. For sheer excitement, Lora Scott (overleaf) has the ultimate ensemble.

Weekends devoted to total immersion in escapist fiction are pure pleasure for Alana Soares (left). Sometimes she doesn't even bother getting fully dressed, happy to remain in her scanties. Raquel Bianca (above and below) always has a book nearby. Her literary tastes are as diverse and intriguing as her preferences in intimate apparel.

Women who are compulsive about coordination might select outerwear before making a decision about innerwear. Cowgirl regalia calls for an unadorned thong in Lisa Saxton's plan (above). Kelli Slattery (right) contemplates the matter of lingerie appropriate to a gauzy skirt.

Karen Foster (below) gives in to ennui but feels no guilt. She's content to laze about in bed and lingerie all day long. Peggy McIntaggart (bottom) wears a colorful bikini and a sunny expression. Anita Hart (right) is dazzling in floral-print wrap and roller-coaster bikini. Debi Nicolle Johnson (overleaf) finds comfort in a teddy.

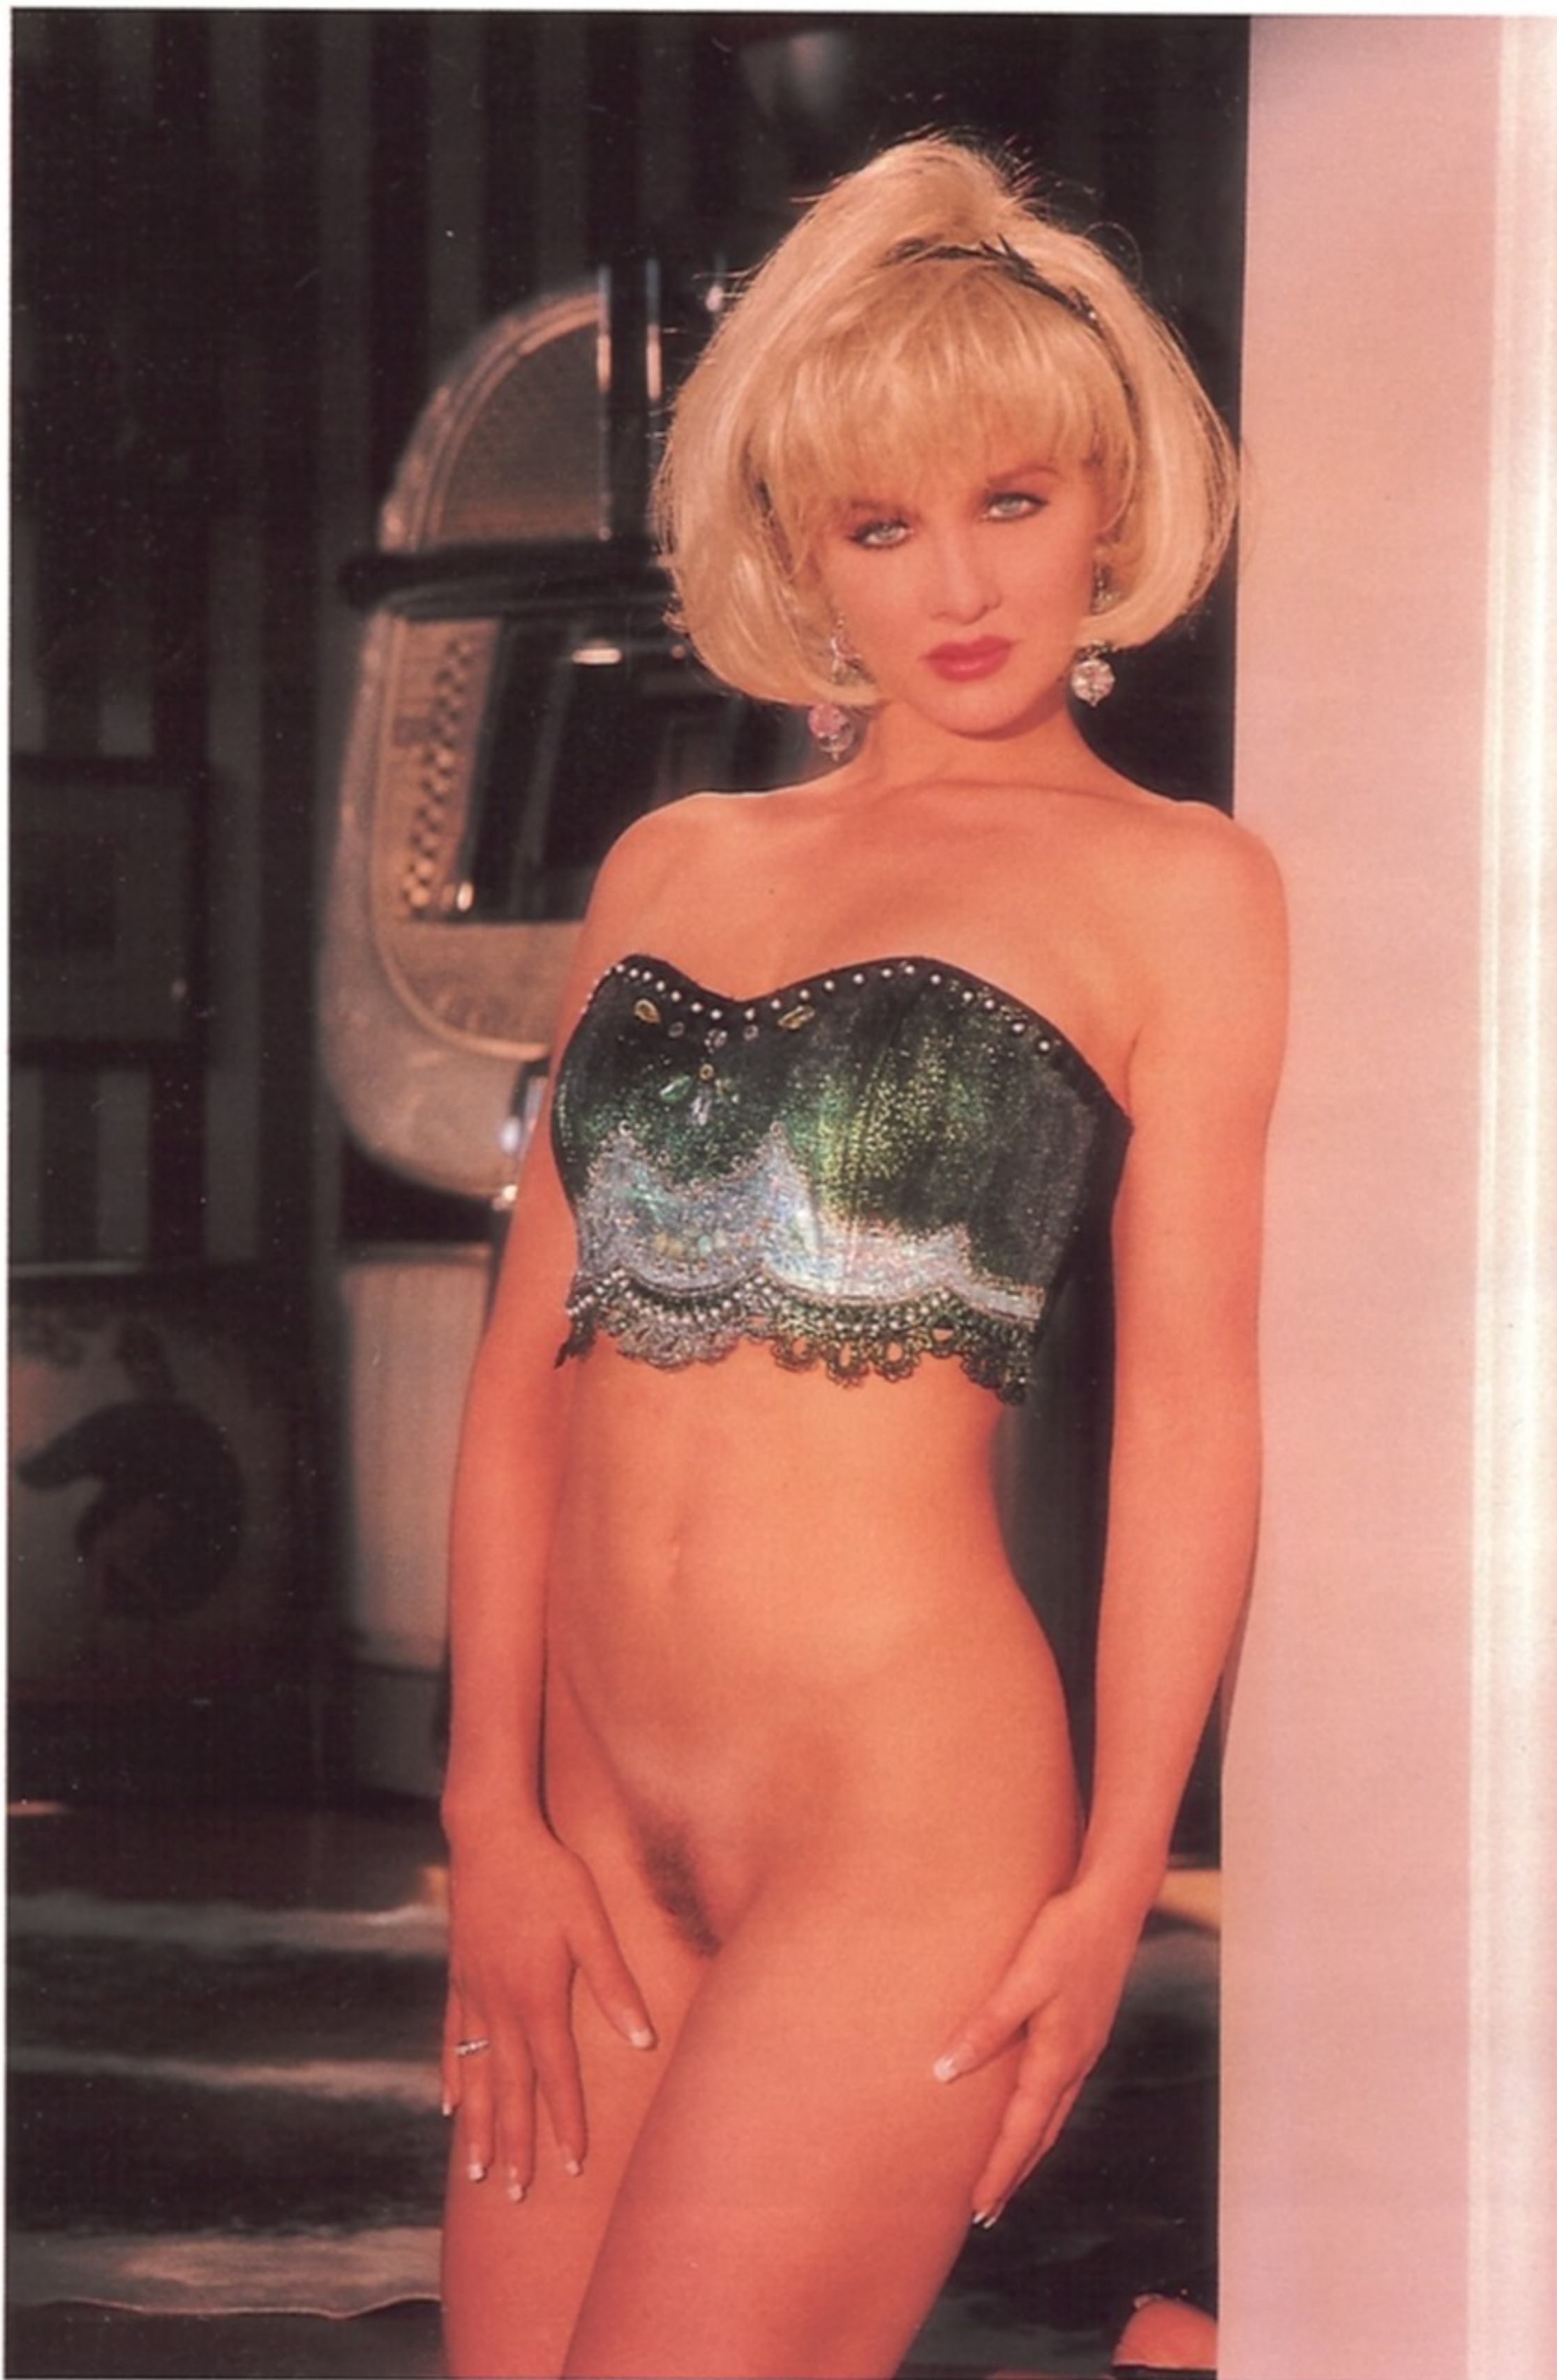

Thoughts free-falling through time and space, Jill Terashita (far left) recalls the thrill of a parachute jump over the Mediterranean. Ginger Lau (left) cross-trains, hoping she can get in one last ski trip in the high country. Evelyn Escalante (above) revs up the rpm's with a sensational teddy.

A review of the lingerie wardrobe only confuses things—so many choices, so little time. Deborah Driggs (left) can't decide between ornate white lacework or sophisticated satin. Bonnie Marino (above) is just exhausted. She selects a print gown to revive her spirits.

Splendiferous in iridescent cropped bustier, Brenda Hines (above) is a positive endorsement for deluxe lingerie. Anticipating a chilly morning, Ava Fabian (right) seems reluctant to leave the warmth of her bedding. Here's news that is reassuring: Spring will not be late this year.

Donna Ground (left) just had to get out of the house for a splash of sun, even before she'd had coffee. Pool players say it's all in the wrists, but Brittany McCrena (above), showing winning form in bra and panty, knows it's a mind game. Colors from the pallet of dawn surround Pamela Anderson (overleaf) in lustrous lingerie.

 adds contours to a G-string-and-bra set. Kerstin Bock (above right) languishes in a potpourri of satin and lace, hoping to lead March out like a lamb. Lingerie noir suits Laurie Wood (overleaf) and her rainy-day mood.

As the hours of daylight lengthen, women are drawn to the out-of-doors, reluctant to let go of the dimming rays. Terri Lynn Doss (left) in a button-front corselet and Cynthia Kaye (below) in a satin wrap are typical. They are being caressed by deepening shadows, overtaken by darkness.

Evelyn Escalante (above), in a mere sigh of a demibra, encourages the mild April beams. Michelle Anderson (below) finds a bathing spot on a rocky perch. Pamela Anderson (right) might like to be among the recumbent sun worshipers, but there are seeds to be planted. Donning worn jeans and a dainty cami, she gets to work.

Variations on a theme of white lace: Soula Demetris (left) tops a terrific teddy in rose-petal pink, and Mera London (above) experiments with an updated version of the girdle. We'd pay more than a penny to know what Tera Tabrizi (overleaf) is thinking about. Or is she simply having an emotional reaction to her lively print duo?

We have no April fools among our lingerie models. They all are hip to the latest in fashion. Sloane de Clèves (left) is très moderne in sheer net with satin touches. Amid colorful artifacts, Brandi Downs (above) is a standout in muted bra. Silvery accessories enhance golden-toned Kimberly Southwick (below) in a pert V-kini.

Spring training starts early this year, and we think Amy-Rochelle Weiss is a natural for our hall of fame. She's batting a thousand in lingerie fundamentals.

Donna Ground (above and right) tries out a corset that might have been made for Miss Scarlett. But she doesn't give a damn for the antebellum concept; she opts for something less confining and ultracontemporary. A totally relaxed look is accomplished by Jacki Sams (overleaf).
